

How do I report child abuse?

Mandated reporters must make an immediate and direct report of suspected child abuse to ChildLine either electronically at: www.compass.state.pa.us/cwis or by calling 1-800-932-0313.

After making the report to ChildLine, if the abuse took place at an Academy function or the perpetrator is connected to The Academy, mandated reporters are required to immediately thereafter notify an Academy Board member or the Executive Director.

If an oral report was made to ChildLine, a report of suspected child abuse (CY-47) must also be completed and forwarded to the county children and youth agency within 48 hours after making the report.

This form can be obtained at www.KeepKidsSafe.pa.gov or from the children and youth agency. If a report is made electronically, no CY-47 is required to be completed.

CHILD ABUSE MANDATORY REPORTING

Pennsylvania

Section 6311(a) of the Pennsylvania Child Protective Services Law defines 16 categories of adults as mandated reporters.

Most Academy volunteers are considered mandated reporters due to Section 6311(a)(7) that states, “An individual paid or unpaid, who, on the basis of the individual’s role as an integral part of a regularly scheduled program, activity or service, is a person responsible for the child’s welfare or has direct contact with children.”

The Academy does have volunteer positions that are not considered mandated reporters such as concessions, ushers, stage construction, cleaning crew, etc. Adults participating in Academy classes are also not considered mandated reporters.

Please contact the Executive Director of the Academy with any questions about mandated reporter requirements.

Does a mandated reporter have to know for sure that the child was abused?

A mandated reporter is responsible to make the report when they suspect a child is a victim of abuse. Are mandated reporters required to report when they learn of the abuse from someone other than the child who was allegedly abused?

Yes. Nothing requires a child to come before the mandated reporter in order to make a report.

Must a mandated reporter give their name?

The law requires that the mandated reporter identify themselves and where they can be reached. This information is helpful so that if clarification on the situation or additional information is needed, the children and youth caseworker can contact the mandated reporter.

Will the name of the mandated reporter be released?

The identity of the person making the report is kept confidential with the exception of being released to law enforcement officials or the district attorney’s office.

What if a mandated reporter fails to follow the law?

The penalties for a mandated reporter who willfully fails to report child abuse range from a misdemeanor of second degree to a felony of the second degree.

Will a mandated reporter have to testify in court?

Mandated reporters may be required to testify in a civil or criminal court case, including a juvenile or criminal court proceeding.

What happens after a report is made?

ChildLine forwards the report of suspected child abuse to the local county children and youth agency, which investigates the report to determine if the allegations can be substantiated as child abuse/ neglect and also arranges for or provides the services that are needed to prevent the further maltreatment of the child and to preserve the family unit. The county children and youth agency must begin an investigation within 24 hours. A thorough inquiry is conducted to determine if the child was abused and what services are appropriate for the child and family. This must be completed within 30 days unless the agency provides justification as to why the investigation cannot be completed, including attempts being made to obtain medical records or interview subjects of the report. If the alleged perpetrator named in the report does not meet the definition of perpetrator under the CPSL, but does suggest the need for investigation, ChildLine will forward the information to the district attorney’s office in the respective county.

How does a mandated reporter learn what happened on the report they made and what the agency is doing to protect the child from further abuse?

Mandated reporters will receive information from the Department regarding the final status of the report, whether it was unfounded, indicated or founded, and the services planned or provided to protect the child.

What will be done for the child?

It is the mission of the county children and youth agency to preserve the family whenever possible. Should the child be found to be in danger of continued harm, the child may be removed from the home. Through counseling, training and other support services, families learn to end the cycle of abuse and establish a parent/child relationship that will be free of physical and mental violence.
